Some Thoughts on Sharing the Tax Burden

Although known as a Conservative on national policies your editor is sometimes suspected even by his friends of being a Radical when writing about state and local tax policies. All men of common sense agree on one thing—that whatever the governmental budget is it should be fully covered by current taxes. But where we fall out among ourselves is this: Sometimes we go along with a budget increase figuring it won't hurt us because the compensating tax will be levied against someone else.

That in a nutshell is this writer's analysis of four decades of government in Arkansas. Our demonstrated policy is to permit public expenditures to constantly rise and just as constantly we switch the added tax burden away from wealth and onto the backs of the poor.

This explains your editor's long and determined fight to halt any further increase in the rate, or expansion of coverage, of the state sales tax. If you've heard it said once you've heard it a thousand times: The sales tax is the fairest of all taxes. Up to a point—after which it becomes the unfairness of all taxes, for it is levied against the necessities which the poor must buy just for the privilege of staying alive.

Your editor is on a collision course with the Arkansas Education association, the Parent-Teacher association, and the Arkansas Gazette—all of whom are obviously beating the drums for an increase in the state sales tax from present 3 per cent to 4.

If I say I couldn't care less, history justifies me. Back in 1934 I campaigned editorially for the state sales tax. Real estate was bankrupt, unable to pay the taxes necessary to keep the public schools going. Almost alone among Arkansas' newspapers The Star and the Fort Smith papers campaigned for a sales tax. In February 1935 I appeared before the House Committee on Revenue and Taxation and spoke for the Hall sales tax bill, which the General Assembly enacted the following month.

It was then that the Arkansas PTA voted me "the man of the year."

A couple of decades later I was their "heel of the year"—it was 1957 and I was circulating a state-wide petition for a referendum to halt a hike in the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent. What had happened in the course of two decades? Just this:

The original Hall bill of 1935 levied a 2 per cent sales tax against consumer goods, exempting, however, food, medicine, and clothing.

In 1941 the General Assembly struck out these exemptions.

In 1957 the tax rate was increased from 2 to 3 per cent across the board—not to mention constant increase in coverage managed by Revenue Department regulations.

What happened to other taxes during those two decades? They either stood still or declined. Obviously the sales tax instead of being applied solely to the public schools and public welfare as originally intended was diverted in part to relieve other tax categories.

Over the years this point has been driven home to the General Assembly, and when Gov. Rockefeller demanded an expanded state budget last Spring the legislature rightly rebelled against any increase in the sales tax—if more money were needed it would have to come from other sources.

I suggested at the time that this newspaper would go along with higher income and corporation levies. The legislature was in the same frame of mind.

Oddly enough, when this position became clear the various lobbies working upon the legislature suddenly discovered the state's fiscal needs weren't as great as they first imagined them to be.

Gov. Rockefeller is talking about calling a special session after the first of the year. I supported him in two successful campaigns—but if he brings up a sales tax hike I will let the record show that this newspaper fought his tax program in two

Says He Saw Laird Reports Stepup of Enemy Infiltration Into South Vietnam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An Army sergeant stationed at Ft. Dix, N.J., says he saw American soldiers kill hundreds of South Vietnamese men, women and children in the village of My Lai in March 1968.

Sgt. Michael Bernhardt said Wednesday night that Company C, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry of the 11th Brigade of the Americal Division conducted the mass slaying as the result of an order by the company commander.

In another development related to the deaths, the Cleveland Plain Dealer today printed photographs showing South Vietnamese civilians allegedly killed in the incident. It said the photographs came from a former Army combat photographer, Ronald L. Haeblerle, of Cleveland.

Haeblerle said in a copyright story that he joined the company just before it entered the village and heard from the men that it was suspected the villagers were Viet Cong sympathizers. He said he saw men, women and children slaughtered.

Li, William L. Calley Jr., 26, of Miami, Fla., has been charged with murder in the case, and Staff Sgt. David Mitchell, St. Francisville, La., has been charged with assault with intent to murder.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said he did not expect there would be any official comment on the Plain Dealer story or photographs. "We don't want to say anything that would prejudice this case," he said.

The charges brought against Calley Sept. 5, one day before he was due to be discharged from the service, were prompted by the actions of Ronald Lee Ridenhour, 23, a former Army Spec. 4 now attending college in California.

Newsweek magazine said in its current issue that Calley's case is "only one of a string of related incidents" in which 567 civilians in three hamlets were killed.

consecutive sessions of the Assembly.

The way to hold the budget line is to give advance notice that for once any tax increase is going to hurt the rich—as it has hurt the poor for so many years.

Radical? Hardly. It's the only political strategy calculated to unite all taxpayers in a common front against the tax-eaters.

Increased taxes may prove to be necessary. But let's demand proof that they are necessary—stipulating in advance that the one levy that can't be raised is the sales tax.

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, in a marathon defense of administration diplomatic and military policy, reports a stepup of enemy infiltration into South Vietnam during the past two weeks.

"I can't give you the reason that Hanoi has decided to increase infiltration," Laird said. Word of the enemy activity came as military sources reported U.S. combat deaths in Vietnam have risen for the second straight week. The sources said the weekly casualty report due Thursday will show more than 100 American soldiers killed in battle last week, compared with 97 the previous week and 83 the week before that.

Officials said the level is still low enough to permit the President to order additional U.S. troops withdrawn.

Lowered rates both of casualties and of North Vietnamese troop movement into the southern war zone were among the hopeful signs mentioned by President Nixon in his Nov. 3 report to the nation on Vietnam.

"There has been some increase in infiltration during the last two weeks," Laird said Wednesday after spending more than six hours behind the closed doors of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Laird gave no figures, but Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the secretary had said infiltration had risen to the rate of a year ago.

Laird told the committee that ground combat will be turned entirely over to South Vietnam "in a reasonable time frame."

Fulbright said Laird refused to be more specific about a timetable or the number of American forces to remain in a supporting role.

"I hope that I have satisfied the critics," Laird said after his committee appearance. He had not.

"It's a program for the continuation of the war," said Fulbright. He said he believes some 200,000 Americans would have to remain in Vietnam even if Saigon took over ground combat.

"My criticism doesn't really run to the secretary's Vietnamization as much as it does to a lack of emphasis on negotiations and almost a sense of hopelessness," Fulbright said.

Lodge spoke after the Viet Cong angrily denounced the United States, charging that the reported American massacre of civilians in two villages of Quang Ngai Province March 1968 were only part of the story of U.S. "war crimes."

Lodge told the 43rd session of the conference that the United States is willing to consider any timetable Hanoi may wish to offer for a mutual withdrawal of all non-South Vietnamese forces.

Such a timetable could see American troops withdrawn from Vietnam more quickly than the President's "alternative plan" for pulling out U.S. forces if there is no settlement, Lodge said.

"President Nixon will not be pressured into departing from the course which he has set," Lodge warned. "Those who live in authoritarian countries should try to understand that last week's events in Washington were a demonstration of the exercise of the right of free speech. You should also understand that the evidence shows that the great majority of the American people supports the President's effort for peace."

3 Announce Position on Haynsworth

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the dwindling band of uncommitted senators apparently plan no announcement in advance of Friday's voting on the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.

But three senators—Democrat Jennings Randolph of West Virginia and Republicans John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Charles M. C. Mathias of Maryland—said they would announce their positions today.

As debate resumed today, an Associated Press survey showed 44 senators for confirmation, 41 opposed and 15 uncommitted in the dramatic, down-to-the-wire battle.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., is one of the uncommitted willing to leave the outcome in suspense to the last.

"I'm not going to make any comment," said the Oregon Republican. "I'm just going to vote."

Similarly, in a separate interview, Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said he will not make his position known until he votes. "I might want to change my mind," he said.

Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania previously has said he will have no

Nixon, Sato Talk Trade Barriers

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's talks with Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato shifted today from Okinawa and nuclear weapons to economic differences—chiefly textiles and trade barriers.

Both leaders were under strong domestic pressures on the textile question. The United States want Japan and other producing nations to voluntarily restrain the flow of woolen and man-made textiles entering this country.

Sato, who faces a critical election this year, wants to avoid any impression he is "buying back Okinawa" by making concessions on textiles.

A major concern of the three-day negotiations has been the return of Okinawa to Japanese control.

Authoritative sources said a joint communique to be issued Friday by the two leaders would have some carefully constructed language to get around the political dilemma.

But after Sato's return home U.S. officials expect to see some real movement from Japan at a Geneva conference on textile restraints.

The communique also is expected to cover an agreement reached by the President and prime minister at their first meeting Wednesday on the ground rules for continued U.S. bases on Okinawa after its return to Japan in 1972.

However, the communique will not make any reference to the removal of atomic devices from the island before 1972, sources say, but it was nevertheless agreed on by the two leaders during their initial meeting Wednesday.

Nigerian Plane Down, 77 Killed

By MORT ROSENBLUM

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A Nigeria Airways VC10 from London crashed today four miles north of the Lagos airport. There were no survivors among the 77 persons reported on board, airport sources said.

The plane lost radio contact as it was coming down to land. There was no indication of trouble. The weather was foggy over the crash site but clear at the airport.

The charred wreckage lay smoking in the dense jungle just beyond the outskirts of metropolitan Lagos.

At one point Gordon asked Intrepid to go down a bit toward the moon.

"Sorry, I don't know where the moon is," quipped Conrad, who had just spent more than 31 hours on the lunar surface.

The two ships flew formation in an orbital ballet for several minutes and then Gordon gingerly moved in for the hookup, locking the two firmly together.

Television viewers got a glimpse of Conrad's head through one of Intrepid's windows as the two maneuvered close.

Later, Conrad and Bean were to transfer through a connecting tunnel into the command cabin after setting up Intrepid for an attempt to crash it on the moon to excite a moonquake detector they left behind on the moon.

Conrad and Bean had started their busy day on a geological field trip near their base on the Ocean of Storms. During the four-hour trek they gathered a treasure chest of rocks for scientists and clipped off parts of a Surveyor spacecraft which had landed on the moon 2½ years ago.

Right on schedule at 9:26 a.m., thrust from an engine at the base of their cabin section vaulted the explorers off man's second lunar outpost.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 12's moon explorers blasted off the moon today and steered their tiny moon ferry to a linkup with their mother ship to climax a day of high adventure that started with an expedition across a mile of lunar wastelands.

Earthlings had a ringside seat for the final rendezvous maneuvers as Richard F. Gordon Jr. pointed a color television camera out his command vessel window to picture the fast-approaching Intrepid moonship with the cratered moon in the background.

"We're in. Stable as a rock!" Charles Conrad Jr. exclaimed as the two ships hooked up nose-to-nose at 12:58 p.m. EST.

"Super job," Conrad and Alan L. Bean had skillfully guided the fragile Intrepid through a series of complex maneuvers in a cosmic chase that covered 3½ hours and nearly two circuits of the moon.

They zeroed in on Gordon, who had flown the Yankee Clipper alone since the explorers started their descent to the moon Tuesday night.

When the television picture first flashed on, Intrepid was about 4,000 feet away and moving in at about 25 miles an hour.

Even at this critical moment, the astronauts displayed the same good humor they have had throughout man's second expedition to the moon.

"How can you look so good when you're so ugly?" Gordon asked.

"I don't know. You look pretty good yourself," Conrad replied. The ungainly-looking craft resembled a giant insect, spitting fire from its thrusters, as it loomed larger and larger on the TV screen.

"Stand by to receive the skipper's pig," Mission Control radioed, using a nautical term to describe the harpoon-like docking device in the command ship.

"Aye, aye, sir," Gordon replied.

At one point Gordon asked Intrepid to go down a bit toward the moon.

Says Judging Pornography Is Wrong

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Dr. Morse Peckham flicked his gray beard, bit down on the cigarette holder and, from behind a cloud of smoke, said, "It is wrong to judge pornography as something that is all about sex—it can be an insight into human beings."

The University of South Carolina English professor, author of a new book entitled "Art and Pornography," said of his 300-page work: "Don't get excited, it isn't illustrated."

Peckham, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania for 18 years before coming to South Carolina, said he had no great interest in pornography when he started work on his book. Later, he said, he found the subject "one of extraordinary intellectual experience—an opportunity to gain an insight into human beings."

He said pornography is viewed differently by the intellectual, who believes in innovation, and the anti-intellectual, who believes in social stability. The intellectual is hesitant to admit that art can be pornographic, he said, and it is "mere carelessness on the part of literary critics to say that pornography cannot be literature and cannot be art."

The anti-intellectual, he said, refuses to admit that anything pornographic can be art and "wants to ban pornography in public while enjoying it in private. He feels he must maintain the morality of the community."

Among his other views: "Cheap pornography is moving up the cultural ladder; it's better written now than the typical stories that once appeared in the old Saturday Evening Post."

—The current increase in pornography is natural because "there is always a flood of pornography during times of cultural crisis, as we are undergoing today. The biggest spurge of pornography in history came during the French Revolution."

— "There is no evidence that pornography has caused any harm, nor is there evidence it hasn't."

— Neither laws nor a Supreme Court decision can resolve the controversy over pornography.

Democrat Reformers Seek Voice

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic party reformers have voted to require "a reasonable relationship" between the number of Negroes, women and young people in each state and the makeup of its delegation to the 1972 national convention.

But they compromised the difficult "proportional representation" question by delaying until 1976 at the earliest any requirement for inclusion of minority political viewpoints in each delegation. They did, however, urge efforts in this direction in 1972.

The decisions came Wednesday from a party reform commission, finishing work today on guidelines to be sent to state Democratic leaders for implementation.

The commission, created at the 1968 convention to recommend reforms in delegate selection, is headed by South Dakota Sen. George S. McGovern.

In its action to assure representation of minority groups, women and Democrats under 30, the commission insisted it was not establishing quotas. It passed a resolution 16 to 0 stating "this does not envision the imposition of a quota system."

The vote was 10 to 9 in favor of the move by Sen. Birch E. Bayh, D-Ind., to strengthen an antidiscrimination provision by requiring representation of minority groups in delegations bear "a reasonable relationship to the group's presence in the population of the state."

The commission then voted 13 to 7 to provide similar requirements for women and young people.

McGovern said 16 delegations at the 1968 convention had no members under 30, while 13 others had one.

Rose Kennedy Vows to Stay Unbending

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — "I don't intend to be laid low or pulverized," Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy once told an interviewer. "If I collapsed, the morale of the family would suffer." With that same unbending determination to carry through, Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy buries

vin Willis, Jesse Brown and Sgt. Reid Clark.

her husband of 55 years today. Every aspect of the funeral bears her unmistakable touch. The white funeral Mass at the tiny Roman Catholic church in Hyannis was of Rose's choosing.

A family spokesman said she wished the service to emphasize the joy of resurrection rather than the sorrow of death.

Calendar of Events

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20
The Hempstead County Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, November 20 in the Memorial Nursing Home dining room. This is a very important called meeting, and Bill Cross, hospital administrator, and Mrs. Juanita Rice, supervisor of nurses, will be there to answer any questions. Anyone interested in the hospital auxiliary is urged to attend.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21
The Friday Music Club will meet Friday, November 21, at 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wimmell in McCaskill. Members are asked to meet at the courthouse square in Hope at 3 p.m. to make the trip together.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22
Iris Garden Club will have a Bake Sale, Household Sale and Rummage Sale in the building behind Ward's Drug Store Saturday, November 22.

A potluck and cards entertainment will be held at the Hope Country Club on Saturday, November 22 at 7 p.m. The hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lockhart, will provide the meat and bread, and the rest of the meal will be potluck.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 25
Cosmopolitan Club will meet Tuesday, November 25 at 7:45 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Jim McKenzie, West 15th Street, with Mrs. L. T. Lawrence as co-hostess.

IRIS JUNIOR GARDEN CLUB MEETS

The Iris Junior Garden Club met November 14, 1969 at Beryl Henry School with Mrs. Bennet Wood and Mrs. Dick Moore as sponsors. Officers for the year were elected as follows:

President—Bill Shirey
V. Pres.—Scott Hehdershot
Sec.—Barbara Watson
Historian—Kathy Gunter
Reporter—Cynthia Murphy
Mrs. Wood presented a program of slides of an iris garden taken in Tennessee. The program ended with each member of the club planting an iris bulb.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Pyracantha berries and fall foliage made pretty decoration for the home of Mrs. Harry Hawthorne on November 18, when she was hostess for a meeting of her Tuesday Bridge Club. Among the two tables of club members, Mrs. Hawthorne was high scorer, and Mrs. R. L. Broach was second high. Coffee and cold drinks were served during the afternoon.

DEANN LILAC CLUB

The DeAnn Lilac Garden Club was entertained by Mrs. Cora Burke and Mrs. Ansley Willett on Tuesday, November 18 in the Burke home. Mrs. Willett read Matt. 24:1-27, and all repeated the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. C. B. O'Steen, president, opened the business meeting during which tentative plans were made for a Thanksgiving luncheon on Tuesday, November 25 either in Hope or Texarkana.

Under the guidance and instruction of Miss Lillie Clark, the seven members in attendance made permanent flowers out of nylon hose. Each member brought a triangle arrangement of flowers to the meeting, and in the judging of them Mrs. G. C. Clark took first place.

Pecan or pumpkin pie was served with coffee to the members and one guest, Roy Clark.

Coming, Going

At the annual Awards Luncheon for Conifer Council Girl Scouts today (Thursday) at the Howard Johnson Convention Center in Texarkana, George Frazier was the master of ceremonies. Others attending from Hope were Mrs. Thompson Evans, Jr., Mrs. E. P. Young, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Stone, members of the Board of Directors; Mrs. Kenneth Petre, Melonvine Neighborhood chairman; Mrs. Gail Snyard, Mrs. Dorsey Stringfellow, and Mrs. Roger Pletcher, delegates.

Births

Rev. and Mrs. Larry F. Gaines, of Lufkin, Texas, announce the arrival of their second child, a son, Mark Forrest, born November 13.
The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Flowers and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Gaines all of Hope.

"That electronic gun to shoot coins into toll baskets," I protested. "Do we really need that? And I think we can get along without the coffee percolator that works off the cigarette lighter."
"How often do we buy a car?" demanded my profligate spouse. "You can never tell when an automatic map-folding machine might come in handy."
After we got it all totalled up, it turned out the options were the main purchase, and the car was the accessory.
But I'm not complaining. This automobile is bigger than our last one and to get it into the garage my husband will have to clean out a massive accumulation of junk—a task I haven't been able to talk him into during 15 years of nagging.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television networks, like space travelers, are prepared for emergencies and they used their backup systems Wednesday when the Apollo 12 TV camera quit apparently as a result of being pointed directly at the sun by mistake.

Viewers did see the blurry figure of astronaut Charles Conrad Jr. cautiously climbing down the ladder of the landing craft and taking that step onto the moon's surface shortly before 7 a.m. EST. He was followed about a half hour later by Alan L. Bean.

Since the camera was not focused on the moon surface before it failed, viewers saw little. Long after the picture disappeared, the reporters on the three networks kept a running commentary on the men's activities as the screens showed a black and white design.

Eventually, the networks turned to simulations to keep up with the activity on the moon. CBS and ABC had men dressed in space suits roving around the mockups of the landing craft and the moon surface. NBC had the Bill Baird Marionettes in space suits and they were not quite as effective.

Throughout the time the voices of the two men on the moon came through with remarkable clarity. It was hard to distinguish between their voices, but it soon became obvious that the ebullient one was Conrad. He kept up a steady stream of conversation and when he ran out of words, he hummed a little tune.

Coverage by the three networks ran from 1 a.m. EST until the astronauts were back in the landing craft at 10:30 a.m. Simulations also were used to report an on-target landing. NBC's research department estimated that some 30 million Americans witnessed the TV coverage. The first moon landing last July had an audience which at first was estimated at 60 million and later revised upwards to close to 100 million.

For Apollo 12, the smooth coverage of each network was once again, evidence of planning, preparedness and imagination.

Wednesday night's "Sound of Burt Bacharach" was a television hour with class and charm.

The "Music Hall" program on NBC had Bacharach plus Lena Horne and Tony Bennett. Mostly they sang Bacharach songs and seemed to enjoy it.

Church Museum

The Turkish government decreed the Cathedral of St. Sophia in Istanbul to cease to be used as a religious place of worship and to become a museum. So, today, it perpetuates the memory of both its Christian and its Islamic backgrounds.

HER BEST POINT IS BEHIND HER. Sunken Gardens model Lana Trager of St. Petersburg, Fla., recently won the title of "Miss Beautiful Back of 1970." Lana is 5-feet-5, weighs 105 pounds, measures 34-23-35.

SETTING THE STYLE, the younger generation has taken to the maxi coat now that they've influenced their mothers to raise hemlines above the knees. These photos made in New York show that the long-length coat has caught on with young women. Whether skirts and dresses will follow the trend remains to be seen.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

A DIFFERENT KIND OF TURN-ON

Dear Helen: My girl friend and I are having a disagreement. She says that boys get turned on quicker than girls with slow dancing, soft lights, dreamy music and maybe a little kiss to go with it: not heavy petting. I say girls do. What do you say?

Also, do you know of a dictionary that gives definitions of all the words that aren't in regular dictionaries? A boy called me some pretty wild names when he got mad at me, and I'd like to know what they mean.—CURIOUS.

Dear Curious: 1. Soft lights, dreamy music, light necking make girls more romantic; boys often more expectant. It's a different kind of turn-on, and sometimes a young girl is quite surprised by the fire she has lit.

2. You might get mad all over again if you learned what the boy's words mean, but if curiosity wins, there's always the Dictionary of American Slang—though it may be restricted in your library.—H.

Dear Helen: Bravo for your answer to "Mr. Elder," Helen. His opinion of sex in college is pure middle-age paranoia, mixed with the wishful thinking of a dirty mind.

If ever a man wrote a scathing indictment of himself, Mr. Elder did, for people judge other by themselves. Perhaps HE couldn't have a sincere friendship with a member of the opposite sex, but I know that deep, clean, comradeship often exists between male and female, both in school and out—for those whose life is above the merely physical.—MRS. NOT SO YOUNG MYSELF.

Dear Helen: Who does Mr. Elder think he is to make an accusation that all college students think of is sex? Though I am still in high school, I know what I am saying. This sex stuff you read about is a least 50 per cent exaggeration. To tell the truth, most of us aren't ready and we know it! If sex were as accepted as they say, how come it's still such big news? People don't write about the commonplace. Maybe this is why my story doesn't get heard often—it's the unsensational truth.

Recently I went on a co-ed camping trip and another guy and I met two girls who wanted to sleep under the stars instead of in a cabin. We met much resistance from the adult counselors but finally we got permission, so long as a counselor "chaperoned."

Well, an emergency arose and the chaperone was called back to the cabin. But we stayed out in our sleeping bags just the same—and no doubling up! The main reason we stayed was to show Mr. Dimwitted Dummy, Elder that he is wrong about us!—JOHN B.

Dear Helen: It's so hard to make adults like Mr. Elder—even nice-type adults—believe this that I seldom try, but I've been on many weekends with boys who are good friends, and I've had no problem remaining a virgin. It's my choice and they respect my wisher. And, frankly, I don't care what other people think as long as I think well of myself.—JANICE WHO IS WAITING FOR LOVE

McCovey Is Named Most Valuable

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie McCovey, San Francisco's home run and runs batted in champion, shaded Tom Seaver, the New York Mets ace who led the majors with 25 victories for the 1968 National League Most Valuable Player Award Thursday although each received only first place votes.

McCovey wound up with 265 points to Seaver's 243 in the balloting of the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association announced by Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer. The secret vote by two committee men from each league city was taken after the season and before the playoffs and included only regular season performances. Lang tabulated the votes this week.

Hank Aaron, Atlanta outfielder who ranks No. 3 on the all-time home run list, was third with two first-place votes and 188 points. Aaron won the MVP in 1957 when the Braves were in Milwaukee. Pete Rose of Cincinnati, the two-time batting champ, was next with 127 points, followed closely by Ron Santo, Chicago's third baseman, with 124.

Tommie Agee and Cleon Jones, who played by side in the Mets' outfield, were next. Agee had 89 points and Jones, who led the league during most of the summer, had 82 points.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, the winner in 1966, was eighth with 51 points, followed by Phil Niekro, Atlanta's knuckleball pitcher with 47 and Tony Perez, Cincinnati third baseman, with 28.

In addition to Aaron, and Clemente, other former MVP winners to get votes were Ernie Banks, the 1958-59 champ, 15; Maury Wills, of Los Angeles, the 1962 winner, 17; Bob Gibson of St. Louis, last year's MVP, 2, and Orlando Cepeda of Atlanta, the 1967 MVP, 1.

A total of 38 players were mentioned in the scattered voting. Last year when Gibson won he received 14 of the 20 firsts, the other six going to Rose. The committee was expanded to 24 this year because of the addition of Montreal and San Diego.

McCovey beat out Seaver with 11 firsts, nine seconds, two thirds and two fourths, the only player mentioned on all 24 ballots. Two men did not list Seaver, who received 11 firsts, four seconds, five thirds, one fourth and one fifth. Aaron was listed on 23 of the 24 ballots. Some writers confine their votes to men who play every day and do not list pitchers.

The American League's Most Valuable Player was Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins. Like McCovey, Killebrew played for a team that did not win the pennant although the Twins did take a divisional title.

McCovey, who played much of the season with a painful arthritic condition in his hip, batted .320 while appearing in 149 of 162 games.

Badgers Are Rated Over Hope by 7

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkadelphia's Badgers will have an opportunity to nail down two championships Friday night when they play the Hope Bobcats.

A victory would give the Badgers the Region AAA West title and probably the mythical AA state championship.

Arkadelphia, sporting a 10-0 record, is ranked fifth in The Associated Press poll and No. 1 in AA.

Hope is 9-2 for the season and has one loss in the conference.

Arkadelphia has come this far and the guess is the Badgers won't give up their unbeaten season easily.

ARKADELPHIA 21, HOPE 14.

The Class A playoffs get underway this weekend with three games Friday night and another Saturday night.

The playoffs match Alma and Paris; Piggott and Augusta; Rison and Ashdown; and Carlisle and McGehee.

Preseason forecasts picked McGehee to go all the way and so far the Owls are right on schedule.

MCGEHEE 20, CARLISLE 14.

Here are other playoff selections:

ALMA 14, Paris 7.
AUGUSTA 20, PIGGOTT 13.
RISON 27, ASHDOWN 24.
Fort Smith Northside has been having its troubles since losing fullback Billy Joe Releford to a knee injury. The Grizzlies were knocked off by North Little Rock Southwest last week and now must face crosstown rival Southside.

Southside is 5-4 for the season and Northside is 8-2, but records don't mean a thing in this one.

NORTHSIDE 20, SOUTHSIDE 14.

Last week's percentage was .685. Here are other AA, AAA and AAAA selections.

El Dorado 13, LR Horace Mann 7; LR Hall 27, NLR Jones 6; NLR Southwest 19, LR McClellan 14; Texarkana 13, Pine Bluff 7; Blytheville 7, Jacksonville 6; LR Parkview 19, Benton 7; Conway 20, Sylva Hills 13; Newport 27, Searcy 7; NLR Northeast 19, Bauxite 14; Cabot 13, Des Arc 7; Watson Chapel 20, Pine Bluff Coleman 15; Malvern 14, Camden Fairview 13; Warren 20, Camden Lincoln 7; Camden 19, Smackover 8 and Crossett 20, Hamburg 6.

Dist. Title at Stake at Arkadelphia

By: RALPH ROUNTON
Star SportsWriter

Tomorrow night Hope travels to Arkadelphia for the Badgers' Homecoming to settle this business about who's the best, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Don't miss it.

At stake will be the 4-AA Western Division championship, and a Hope victory coupled with a Fairview loss at Malvern would give the 4-AA playoff berth next Wednesday night to the Bobcats.

If Fairview does win, though, an Arkadelphia loss would create a three-way tie with a resultant coin flip, fair or not.

Hope, at 9-2, is the decided underdog against the 10-0 Arkadelphia Badgers, presently ranked fifth in the statewide AP poll and first in Class AA.

Both teams monopolize the statistics of Region 4-AA, from first downs to points scored and individual scoring.

Fans will see Arkadelphia rely mainly on a straight dropback pass out of a tight slot formation, but the entire backfield has impressive credentials.

Quarterbacking the Badgers is junior Bill Vining (170), a 6-2 second-year starter who has passed for about 1400 yards already this season. Vining runs little in an offense well supplied with good backs, but he is effective behind a practically impenetrable blocking cup of linemen.

At slotback is speedy Noel Smith, a 150-pound senior who also started last fall. Smith can run with the football, but mainly will run pass patterns and handle blocking assignments.

Carious Murch (175) made All-District at fullback as a junior, and is highly successful now that he is not depended on so greatly. A fine blocker, Murch must also be regarded as a power runner, and can break loose easily.

Picked up in the consolidation with Peake High was Gary Anderson, a fine 180-pound junior halfback with good speed who has scored 80 points this year. Also running in the backfield a bit will be soph Luther Gulnn, a 150-pounder as fast as greased lightning.

As important as the running backs in Arkadelphia's offense are the ends, who time and again this season have broken the long gamebreaker. Junior Bill Hurley (175) is 6-1 and has good hands to go with fine blocking ability, but the favorite targets for Vining are slot ends Scott Thomas (165) and Robert Sanders, a 155-pound senior.

Thomas has caught many TD bombs of 40 yards and more, but Sanders has been playing a good bit also and is a respectable receiver in his own right.

Anyone who has seen the Badgers' comments on their offensive line. Their pass protection is the best, and no one has reached Vining yet. Then they open up holes for those backs to run through, and it has combined for the most deadly attack in this part of the state.

There are a pair of big tackles in Gary Overstreet (205) and letterman Jimmy Hankins, a 210-pound junior, Alvin Newborn, a 160-pound junior from Peake, runs at guard with senior Mike Caldwell (170). Then the center is Larry Cheatham, a senior 160-pounder and probably the best snapper Hope will face all year.

It is an impressive offense, and it has scored over 380 points in ten games, or better than five touchdowns a week. They meet 4-AA's top defense in the Bobcats, and their result is the key to the game.

Defensively the Badgers run a straight monster just like Hope, and they are known for giving trouble to opposing passers after smothering their running attacks.

The ends are Ricky Tucker, a 175-pound junior who also is a fine runner offense, and fellow 11th grader Ronnie Riggie, a mere 205-pounder. Mike Caldwell at left tackle is the only two-way starter besides Carlous Murch, who is relied often away.

Opposite Caldwell is the bruiser, All-District 190-pounder Tom Rutledge, a senior. His fierce pass rush has intimidated many QB's, and the Hope linemen have a job in keeping him off Ronnie Massanelli.

Murch is accompanied at linebacker by Wayne Anderson (190), Gary's brother, who is a fine senior competitor. In the middle at nose guard is Robert Parker, a 195-pound junior who will be hard to block for Bobcat center Randy Wright.

Jackie Yeager, a cocky 175-pound junior, plays monster man and reacts very quickly to the action. Then the secondary is taken up by three underclassmen.

At the halfbacks are Mike McGuire, a 145-pound junior, and soph Danny Melton (140). Fleet Adia Johnson, a junior 170-pounder with 10.1 speed, is the safety man.

As for kicking, Bill Hurley is one of the best punters kicking leftfooted and also is a fine place-kicker. Luther Gulnn and Johnson handle the returns with fine competence, and they have broken quite a few punts and kick-offs loose for long touchdowns.

Coach Frank Spainhour has, at Arkadelphia, a powerhouse team yet capable of being defeated. They have walked through the season thus far, winning the tight ones unbelievable good fortune and coasting through the rest.

It is hard to pinpoint the real advantages either Hope or Arkadelphia will have, which leads on the belief that breaks will make the difference. And the winner will win as the best team, after a heckuva battle at Henderson Stadium.

Sanderson to Return
BOSTON (AP) — Derek Sanderson, standout center who has been sidelined since the second game of the season with a knee injury, was cleared by his doctors Wednesday to return to the Boston Bruins' line-up.

He will play in the team's next National Hockey League game at Chicago Friday night.

Porks Tops in Scoring Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Guess who's still leading in major college pass defense?

Not Ohio State, Not Notre Dame, not UCLA, but Dartmouth of the Ivy League.

Unbeaten Dartmouth has allowed opposing passers only 89.8 yards per game and leads in pass defense for the fourth week in the last five, according to statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Dartmouth shows excellent balance in other defensive categories. The Indians are fifth in interceptions with a .106 percentage, 14th with .418 in percentage of completions allowed; second with 4.2 yards in average yards per attempt allowed; and tied for second with three touchdowns passes permitted.

Maybe Dartmouth's balance is the key to its solid pass defense.

For example, Tennessee leads in the highest percentage of interceptions but the Vols are 72nd in pass defense with 163.5 yards allowed per game.

Brigham Young leads in lowest percentage of completions allowed at .372 but BYU is only 53rd in pass defense with 144.9.

Auburn is tops in lowest average yards per attempt allowed with 4.1 but the Tigers are 23rd in pass defense at 128.3. North Carolina State leads in fewest touchdowns passes allowed, with just two, but is only 16th in pass defense at 119.4.

In scoring defense, Arkansas remained on top with 7.6 points allowed per game. In rushing defense, Louisiana State ousted Wyoming, with 43.1 yards allowed per game. Syracuse replaced Dartmouth in total defense, with 193.5 rushing-passing yards allowed per game.

Broyles Says Getting Hogs Ready Is Hard

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday that getting his Arkansas Razorbacks ready to play Texas Tech is the toughest assignment he's had in 13 years.

The teams play on national television on Thanksgiving Day at Little Rock.

The Red Raiders, Broyles said, "don't have anything on their minds but beating Arkansas and showing us up all over the country."

Tech, with a 5-4 record, has the strongest defense to confront the third-ranked Razorbacks so far this season, the Arkansas coach said.

"They have made a lot of big plays," Broyles said. "They think that is the best defense they have ever had."

Tech's defense is the best in the Southwest Conference against passing.

Tech has stunned Arkansas teams twice in recent years. In 1966, the Red Raiders upset the Razorbacks 21-16 at Lubbock, Tex., and in 1967 they knocked Arkansas out of a bowl game by whipping the Razor-

Hart Closing in on Record for Season

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Henderson's Tommy Hart, although replaced this week as the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference's rushing leader, is closing in on Bobby Tiner's single season total offense record.

Hart, dropping to third place in rushing statistics, has added 1,071 yards passing for a total gain of 2,002 to move within 107 yards of the record. Tiner set the mark of 2,109 at State College of Arkansas in 1967.

Hart also leads the AIC in scoring with 92 points.

Replacing Hart atop the rushing list is Arkansas Tech's Larry Brown, who has gained 1,026 yards. John Wayne Cunningham of Ouachita is second with 932 yards.

Harding's Jerry Copeland remains the passing leader with 1,330 yards. Bison receiver Ronnie Peacock leads his department with 45 catches, replacing Ouachita's Doug Freeze, who has 44 receptions.

backs 31-27 at Little Rock. Wednesday's practice by the Razorbacks centered on the passing game—Arkansas' ability to gain ground with a passing attack and its ability to stop the passing game of the opposition.

Your Ford Dealer's holding the price line. Maverick. Still $1995*

When it comes to prices, you know what's going on. And what's going up. But there's one thing still going straight. Maverick. It holds the line. And its small price makes it America's biggest car value. Here are the facts about our Simple Machine.

It's simple to drive. You get the passing power of a 105-hp Six. Great gas mileage too.

It's simple to park. Maverick can turn in a tighter circle than the leading import.

It's simple to service. Maverick is easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. It needs fewer oil changes, fewer chassis lubrications.

It's simple to repair. You can do many routine maintenance jobs yourself.

David's Illya Image Erased

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The specter of Illya, one of the men from — what was that place again, A.U.N.T.? — has finally ceased to hover over the handsome head of David McCallum.

"I have had more people stop me about 'Teacher, Teacher' than ever stopped me about The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," says David, once a national teen-age idol and now just a good actor.

His role in "Teacher, Teacher," a Hallmark Hall of Fame production of last season, won David an Emmy nomination. Now he has made his second Hallmark Hall of Fame show, a spy drama called "The File on Devlin," set for NBC-TV on Nov. 21.

Through his role in "Teacher, Teacher," which dealt sensitively and compellingly with a retarded child, David has become a sponsor of the National Association of Retarded Children.

Did the role change his life?

"Everything one does changes it. But by working with retarded persons, I have learned so much about myself. I learned for example that I wanted to do something for Billy Schulman, who played the retarded boy in 'Teacher, Teacher,' not because he is retarded but because he deserves it by his work."

David said people instinctively wanted to help Billy, as they do all retarded people. "But he and they are capable if they are left alone. One learns patience working with them. Billy has a basic frustration because he knows how to do some things, but he can't quite really do them. Some of this frustration communicated to me occasionally. But as soon as it did, Billy would have an answer for me. He is retarded in some ways and so very advanced in others."

Meanwhile, George Schaefer, who produced "The File on Devlin" for Hallmark, was in New York very briefly for a very George Schaeferish reason: He flew from Los Angeles, where he is living, to his legal residence in New York to vote. It's not everyone who comes 3,000 miles for civic duty.

But then George is not everyone.

He is the first person ever to be honored by a television retrospective at the New York Cultural Center. Among his classic TV shows to be seen are "Green Pastures," "Magnificent Yankee," "Lamp at Midnight," "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night," "The Little Moon of Albin," "St. Joan" (one of his own personal favorites) and his newest, "The File on Devlin."

Schaefer's own retrospective makes him think nostalgically of the days when these shows, mostly Hallmark Hall of Fame productions, were done live.

"The excitement goes back to those days," he says. "The pressure you were under, the dangers with which you were working."

Some of those dangers, as related by George: "During 'The Corn Is Green,' in the middle of a Welsh cottage, I managed not only to pick up a camera, but also a cameraman and a pusher. On one show, we had the wrong lens on the camera. It should have been a wide lens and the actors, who couldn't know of the wrong lens, were playing the scene wide. It had to look awful and it did. Then there was the actor who was in the hall watching the monitor, which suddenly went blank. He said, 'My God, it's me' and rushed into the studio for his scene."

"But the best was on the first thing I ever did for TV, a two-hour 'Hamlet' with Maurice Evans. He had just begun the 'Now I am alone' soliloquy when a stagehand appeared in the background and sat on a chair."

Those things don't happen today to George. He's busy with feature films. One, "Generation," is about to open. Additionally, he has a three-picture deal with Avco-Embassy and is working on pre-production planning.

But don't be surprised if some day he inserts a stagehand in the background just for old time's sake.

Johnson Is Picked Back of the Week

NFL OFFENSIVE PLAYER
ATLANTA (AP) — "It's too bad they don't pick an offensive team of the week instead of a player," says Atlanta Falcons quarterback Randy Johnson, The Associated Press choice for offensive player of the week in the National Football League.

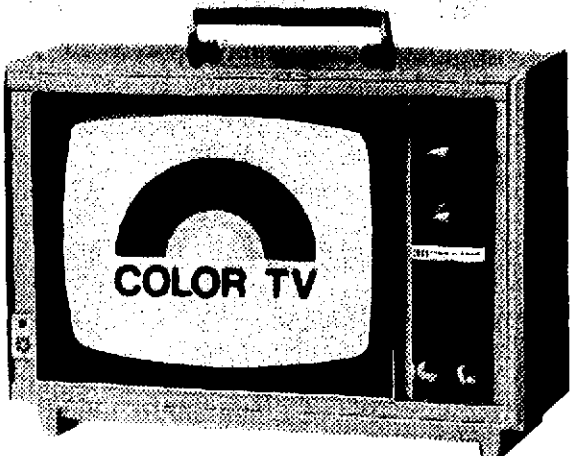

"My job was easy," Johnson said Wednesday of the Falcons' 48-31 upset Sunday over the Chicago Bears in which he threw four touchdown passes and completed 10 of 14 for 202 yards.

"We had blocking and we had people catching the football, so all I had to do was put it out there."

The Falcons, he said, "were due to explode."

"I guess everybody got sick of making mistakes, missing assignments. We decided we'd talked about it enough and we ought to get out there and do something about it. We'd been in a lot of games, been close.

Big Moment Came After the Game

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Pele is, simply, the greatest soccer player in the world and he is usually relaxed like a lion asleep in the sun. Wednesday night was different.

This little man who Brazilians affectionately call the Black Pearl said he shook inside for the first time because he knew he had a chance to become the first professional ever to score 1,000 goals.

The star of the Santos football club did it on a soft penalty kick in the 77th minute of the game against Vasco de Gama. Officials stopped the game for 11 minutes to let the 100,000 fans in the huge Maracana Stadium pour out their pride because in this soccer-struck country, Pele is an idol and his achievement was comparable to Babe Ruth's 60th home run.

The 5-foot-8 Pele was carried off the field on the shoulders of admirers, the tears streaming down his cheeks. As he was mobbed in the dressing room, his team still was on the field, completing a 2-1 victory for the Interstate Robo to Gomes Pedrosa Cup.

Pele was born Edson Arantes Do Nascimento in the small town of Bauri, in the interior of Sao Paulo State but the origin of his nickname is unknown even to him.

John Rees Was His Own Worst Enemy

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — John Rees has given Arkansas split end John Rees more trouble than enemy pass defenders.

"I lacked confidence," Rees said, making his own analysis of the problem, which seems to be solved.

Rees didn't catch a pass during the third-ranked Razorback's first four games, but has caught 15 for 191 yards and two touchdowns in the last four games.

"If I had caught one in the first game, I might never have done that," he said. "The pressure kind of grew after I didn't catch one the first game."

He dropped three easy ones in the Razorbacks' second game of the year against Tulsa.

"I kind of hit a low spot after the Tulsa game," Rees said. "It was just something we had to work out. I went to coach (Richard) Williamson and told him that wasn't like me. I told him I thought I was trying too hard."

"He got to the point that he just got so tight that when he got out there he froze up," said Williamson, who coaches Arkansas receivers. "We had to start over with him after the Tulsa game. He missed some against Tulsa that you just don't miss."

"We knew that once he caught one, he'd be all right," Williamson said. "Now, he's got confidence in himself."

Rees, a 180-pound junior, is the fastest man on the Arkansas squad. His development as a threat adds another dimension to Arkansas' passing attack and should relieve some of the pressure on flanker Chuck Dicus.

"I knew I could catch the ball," Rees said, "but I've always been kind of high strung. I get real nervous before a game."

He caught his first pass in the Wichita State game and wound up the afternoon with four.

"That game I just decided I was going to forget about everything and just going to catch it like I know how," he said. "They gave me a relaxing pill before the game, I don't know if it was the pill or psychology, but it seemed to do the trick."

Now that Rees has confidence in himself, quarterback Bill Montgomery has confidence in Rees.

"Bill is looking for me a little bit more," Rees said. "He feels I can do the job. The more they depend on you, the more your confidence tends to grow."

Rams Think Cowboys to Be Toughest

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — David "Deacon" Jones, a charter member of the Los Angeles Rams' Triple-F defense, views Sunday's struggle with the Dallas Cowboys "as the toughest game of the year."

Triple-F? The longestablished Fearsome Foursome may also be called the Feroocious Front Four, of whom the Deacon and sideman Merlin Olsen are bidding for All-Pro honors for the second straight year.

The 7-foot-5, trimmed down 250-pound Jones, at 30 still happy to wreck quarterbacks, apparently meant the Cowboys figure to be the toughest thus far. Minnesota and Baltimore remain to be played and the Deacon is too smart to give an enemy an opening.

The Cowboy appearance in Memorial Coliseum, nevertheless, has been building in suspense for weeks.

Los Angeles is unbeaten and untied and four games in front of Baltimore in the NFL Coastal Division. Dallas is 8-1 and the leader in the Capitol Division.

Reverend Lloyd Middleton will begin a series of evangelistic messages at the First Assembly of God Church 322 N. Main, Tuesday night November 25th, at 7:30. Mrs. Middleton will be assisting in the revival services with special music from her cord-o-vox as well as vocal numbers.

Reverend Middleton has been active in the evangelistic ministry for a number of years and traveled in many of the states conducting revival services.

The pastor, Reverend C.C. Truitt, extends an invitation to the public to attend these services that are scheduled to continue nightly at 7:30 (except Saturday) until Sunday December 7.

Mr. Middleton is a native of Missouri.

Admit They Are Better at Baseball

By MIKE DOAN
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — They've polished their nightclub act-but the New York Mets still admit they were better at baseball.

"Now we can even hold a note," Ed Kranepool said Wednesday night before the closing show.

"There's no question the audience comes to see you because you're a good baseball player," he said. "Anything you do on stage is gravy."

The once-hapless baseball team won the World Series this year and seven ballplayers were signed immediately by Caesars Palace for $10,000 apiece for two weeks.

Tom Seaver left a week early because of other engagements and Jerry Koosman dropped his singing career after his wife had a baby.

The 1,100-seat showroom was rarely filled. But a hotel spokesman said the Mets, singer Jimmie Rodgers and comedians Jerry Van Dyke and Phil Foster drew better than other acts during a slack tourist period.

On stage the Mets sang "The Impossible Dream" as a movie showed them on the field at their worst and their best. Kranepool says they overcame opening-night jitters with stage experience. The others were Donn Clendenon, Tommie Agee, Cleon Jones and Art Shamsky.

Before trading tuxedos for uniforms, the Mets could appear again in Westbury, N.Y., but haven't decided.

"It's hard to get the fellas together. They live all over," said Kranepool.

pense for weeks. It's been a 78,000 - capacity sellout for a month. Many figure it to be a preview of the National Football League championship game.

"We definitely have to play better against Dallas than we have the past few games," Jones continued. "Dallas is good, both on offense and certainly on defense, and our defense will have to play much better."

Los Angeles is unbeaten and untied and four games in front of Baltimore in the NFL Coastal Division. Dallas is 8-1 and the leader in the Capitol Division.

Roughriders Are Victorious

CALGARY (AP) — The Saskatchewan Roughriders defeated the Calgary Stampeders 36-13 for a two-game sweep of their Western Conference final in the Canadian Football League playoffs.

The victory enabled the Roughriders to qualify for their third Grey Cup game appearance in four years.

Final Rites Today for Joe Kennedy

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY
Associated Press Writer
HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's funeral Mass today was planned around his only living son and his grandchildren.

The Mass was for the family and close friends, with burial to follow in the family plot at Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline, a Boston suburb.

Kennedy, father of President John F. Kennedy, died at his home here Tuesday at 81. A wealthy financier, he had served as U.S. ambassador to Britain from 1938 to 1940. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, like President Kennedy, the victim of an assassin's bullets, was another of the former diplomat's sons.

A family spokesman said the Mass in St. Francis Xavier church here would be "devoted to the grandchildren, some of whom never knew the ambassador until after he became ill" as the result of a stroke that incapacitated him eight years ago.

The role of celebrant was filled by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston and a long-time family friend.

The family spokesman said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would speak at the opening of the Mass in tribute to Ann Gargan, a niece, "to call attention to her great devotion and love for her father." She was the ambassador's constant companion from the time he suffered a stroke in 1961.

Yerger Junior High Choir Sings for PTA

Monday, November 17, the Yerger Junior High School Choir presented the program for the installation of officers for the PTA.

This program was the first public appearance by the group and consisted of a variety of numbers from show tunes to patriotic songs to religious numbers.

The choir will preform again in conjunction with the Senior High Choir on November 25 at the Senior High auditorium. This event, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., is being called a "Pop Rally" since popular tunes will constitute a large portion of the program. The director of both the Junior and Senior Choirs is Miss Juanita Nicholson.

All teachers, parents, students, and friends are urged to support the activities of these groups by their attendance at any and all performances. The music for the upcoming program on November 25 has been selected to appeal to the general public and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Brendan Behan, Irish
playwright, poet, raconteur and rebel, lived life wildly and fully from his early youth. The World Almanac says he joined the Irish Republican Army at the tender age of 13. Three years later, in 1939, he was arrested for attempting to blow up a British battleship and was sent to a reform school. His three years in confinement there provided much of the material for his play, "The Quare Fellow."

WIN AT BRIDGE

Male Ego Burns
While Helen Wins
By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand was played by Helen Sobel Smith in a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club. She was sitting South. The other three players were near experts of the male sex. I was sitting Southeast and watching to see if this young newcomer was as good as some people said she was.

I found out immediately.
She won the heart lead with her queen and played her seven of clubs. East played the three and, with my advantageous position as Southeast, I could see that, if she called for dummy's jack, she was going to be able to make just one club trick unless she could develop delayed second sight.

I had hardly finished my analysis when Helen settled the matter by calling for dummy's ace of clubs. This dropped East's queen nicely and, when a second club play showed that the queen had been a singleton, Helen just claimed her three no-trump.

East and West were indignant about the dumb luck this girl was enjoying. North was happy about the result but remarked condescendingly that Helen had a lot to learn about double-finesse situations and would do well to study this particular card combination for future reference.

Helen said nothing at all but just spread the cards to cut for the next rubber while I had found what I wanted to know. This young blonde was a real player. She needed to be sure of two club tricks and her ace play had guaranteed these two club tricks against any combination of the East-West cards.
Obviously, she knew this safety play and none of the three pseudo-experts did.
Any other club play risked her contract against some possible club break. Helen had insured her success.

First Time Out With Mary Jane

EDITORS NOTE: There are 205 million people in the United States. By the most liberal estimate, 193 million have never been exposed to marijuana (also pot, grass, Mary Jane, joints, reefer, etc.) Here is one man's introduction to pot. It is not to be taken as advocacy. It is a chronicle of an experience that 12 million Americans have, in one way or another, shared.

By LEE MUELLER
NEA Staff Correspondent

SAN PEDRO, Calif. — The only grass the guy had ever seen was the kind that clogged his grandfather's lawnmower on dewy mornings. Here was another kind.

"This," said the bearded one, "ain't hay — you mean to tell me you've never seen marijuana before? Wow, man!" He held the bottle in front of the guy's face and giggled it. Inside was a greenish-brown substance with much the same texture as ground tobacco. Several people smiled. His friend, Dixon, laughed.

Dixon had been a college buddy and now taught at California State College in Long Beach. He and his wife had brought the guy here to meet a girl — a former Chicago Old Town hippie-type turned schoolteacher.

The house was a bit startling. A half of a duplex with four large rooms, it was sparsely furnished in wax-coated wine bottles, silly wall posters (Richard Nixon, "Would you buy a used car from this man?"), orange crates and a junked couch with its legs broken off. A small blue portable record player sat in one corner surrounded by stacks of long-play albums.

The bearded one grinned. "Wow, man, it's like this," he said, flipping the plastic top off the bottle. He sat down on the floor, legs crossed Yoga-style, and took two roll-your-own cigarette papers from a package. He licked the edge of one paper and pasted it to the edge of the other.

"Make sure it's packed tight," he said, pouring a pencil-sized streak of marijuana across the middle of the paper. He folded the paper in half, pinching the grass into the fold with the index fingers and thumbs of both hands. Then he slowly rolled the remaining paper around the core of marijuana, licking it closed and taking care to twist each end tightly in order to keep the substance from falling out.

"Now," said the bearded one. He stuck one end of the cigarette in his mouth, struck a match and lighted it. "Watch," he said, closing his eyes and drawing and inhaling so deeply that his nose made a sucking sound. After a few seconds, he smiled and handed the visitor the cigarette.

Seven people were now in the room. Lights had been turned out and candles were lighted. A gallon bottle of white wine was poured into jelly glasses. The record player twanged and stretched and groaned with psychedelic sound. And the visitor, who had never so much as had a pipe, smoked marijuana.

Two cigarettes were rolled and smoked completely — bobbie pins used to hold each in its final stages — but the he became aware of an extraordinary change in his sense of touch.

He felt. He felt his socks, separating his feet from his shoes; he felt his pants on the back of his legs and the hair on the back of his hands.

He tasted. He tasted the separate qualities of the wine (wine had never tasted so good to him). He tasted an apple, first the smooth, hard, cold surface and then the rough, bittersweet peel and finally the sweet, strong pulp inside.

The guy's imagination ran on five legs. Closing his eyes and listening to the straining psychedelic music, the beat and the background made him think: "I'm a water buffalo, charging through the jungle with green branches and leaves raking against me."

The bearded one stood. The effect was nearly staggering. "Wow, man!" he said. "Oh, wow! People don't realize they can get higher just by standing up."

The next morning, the guy woke in his motel room. There was no pain — just a slightly sore throat from smoking for the first time and a faint smell that is particular to marijuana.

PERSONAL FINANCE

No. 1 House-Buying Rule: Check 6 Areas for Quality

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

Every new home buyer checks out house size, number of rooms, general location and personal suitability. But there is another factor he should consider but seldom does.

That factor is quality of construction.

In his book, "How to Avoid the 10 Biggest Home-Buying Traps," housing expert Art Watkins singles out the "marginal" house as one of his culprits. He describes it as a "house of minimum quality, just good enough to squeak by minimum standards."

Unhappily for the buyer, construction quality is not easily seen or measured. The signs are there, however, for those who learn how to look. Here is a list you can use to check out any home.

Basement—Look for water stains on floor and walls. They mean trouble. A high quality house has a water-tight basement. Poured concrete (solid) walls are another sign of quality, though good block walls can be built. Examine them for major cracks, a sign of heavy settling and poor, or nonexistent, reinforcing.

Plumbing—All-copper piping is a sign of high quality. Look for it in the basement spaces, or check under sinks and vanities. Some plastic pipe is being used, but most building codes forbid it. In older houses, you may find steel or iron pipe. It will probably have to be replaced at considerable expense.

Walls—Walls may be plastered, paneled or made of gypsum board. Plaster is expensive and increasingly hard to find. Gypsum board is a good substitute if properly installed. In cheap jobs, seams will show, nailheads will protrude and a waviness may show on the surface. Paneling comes in various grades, but most of its quality, or lack of it, shows plainly on the surface. If it's not mounted on gypsum board, however, it will transmit sound like a bass drum.

Floors—Either hardwood or some form of composition tile are the most common flooring materials. Hardwood makes a floor that looks good and will last forever. Most problems will come from installation. Look to see if joints are tight and squeaks absent. Too many short lengths means marginal quality, too.

Asphalt tile is the mark of a cheap job. The colors are always dark, and tiles will show broken corners and indentations. Vinyl-asbestos is medium-grade and serviceable. All-vinyl tile is best and shows a rich, glossy appearance. Similar materials are available in sheet coverings. The more expensive ones look more expensive.

Wiring—The building code will specify a form of wiring that is safe, but the amount of current that wiring will furnish is left to the builder. A good quality house today should have no less than 240-volt, 100-ampere service.

If the house has 240-volt power, you will see three heavy wires running from the pole to the house. Inside the house, locate the switch box where the main power supply is divided into house circuits. A quality house will have circuit-breakers (little switches) rather than screw-in fuses. Each breaker will have a number on it. Add the numbers and the total is the house ampere rating.

Kitchen—Kitchen planning is too involved for this space, but certain elements will denote quality here. A minimum of 12 feet of counter-top is one; 12 running feet of storage cabinets is another. Powerful, filtered venting is a third. Above all, check for good illumination, especially over work surfaces, and plenty of electrical outlets.

EDDIE B. MILUS

NEWPORT, R.I. (FHTNC) Oct. 30— Navy Ensign Eddie B. Milus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Milus of Route 3, Hope, Ark., was graduated from Officer Candidate School (OCS) at Newport, R.I.
He became proficient in the naval sciences in the 18 weeks of intensive training comprising the difficult course.
During his four months at OCS, he spent a total of 520 hours on military, tactical, organizational, and technological subjects.
In addition to the classroom time, and two hours a day was devoted either to close order drill, swimming lessons, physical training, or similar activities.
He received actual sea-going experience aboard a squadron of Yard Patrol Craft which are attached to the school and operate daily on Narragansett Bay near Newport.

Pentagon Wants to Keep Okinawa Base

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has told President Nixon giving up Okinawa as a nuclear base would seriously degrade the U.S. deterrent against aggression in the Pacific by such countries as Red China.
Defense officials, reporting this, say they expect some "special arrangement" to emerge from this week's discussions between Nixon and Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato over Okinawa's expected reversion to Tokyo's control in 1972.
The arrangement, presumably would permit U.S. use of Okinawa— seized by the United States from Japan in World War II—as a nuclear springboard in case of extreme crisis in the Western Pacific.
An official communique reporting the result of the three days of meeting is scheduled Friday.
While the State Department wants an agreement politically acceptable to Sato's anti-nuclear opponents back home, Pentagon officials have been approaching the matter more from a strict U.S. security standpoint.
"The military significance of Okinawa would change drastically if we lost 'free use' of the island," a defense official said.
Defense officials won't talk about where nuclear weapons are stored but acknowledge that they are covered under the term "free use."
The Defense officials regard Okinawa as a "fantastic" military complex which places U.S. deterrent forces within 1,500 miles of such potentially hostile nations as Red China, North Korea, and North Vietnam.
"It is important for its deterrent value, the other fellows' knowing we can use it anytime," as one official put it.

Perry's Truckers Post a Win

Perry's Truckers independent basketball team defeated a good Henderson Independent squad in the Guernsey gym Wednesday night by a score of 103 to 86.
